WOMAN'S WORK IN WORLD'S REDEMPTION

An Address Delivered by Rev.
James Vernon, of Henderson, Ky.

TO THE C. W. B. M. IN THIS CITY.

Among the wild tribes of Abyssinia the woman has the right of divorce. Among the Bongos an adulteress is whipped but her guilty partner is beheaded because as they say the man is the more guilty. Among the Friendly Islanders women are well treated and the same is true of the people of Samoa. Among the Philippines if a man wants to marry a woman she can go to the forest and hide and if he cannot find her in a day she need not marry him. These things however are but gleams of light through an appalling cloud. Among cannibals and those who have offered human sacrifices the victims are generally women. Among the Beccanas and Australians a man can kill the wife who displeases him. Among the Adesenes a woman must wear her husband's skull suspended by her neck. In Borneo a married woman must tattoo her hands and feet, and in Japan she must blacken her teeth and pull out her eyebrows. A missionary, who had been to Africa, told me that a chief once offered to give him five wives if he would only come to his village and preach the gospel to his people.

On the Suez canal the steamers are coaled by women and they build all of the railways in Oriental countries. When Stanley ascended the Congo his steamer had to be taken to pieces and carried 300 miles. The carriers were all women, and he records the fact that when they came to put the steamer together not one piece was missing. Among the old Germans when a girl was born the neighbors gave the family a load of beach wood, but when a boy was born they gave them two. When Louise, the mother of the present Emperor of Germany was born, her father, Prince Albert, of England, wrote to Baron Stockmar: "Though it be a girl my joy is very great." In England, Germany, Italy and Russia women work as day laborers in the fields, quarries, tin, copper, salt and coal mines, they are track layers, hot carriers and coal heavers. A recent census of England shows 347 blacksmith helpers, 9,138 horseshoe nail makers, 7,000 makers of boiler rivets and hundreds of chain makers at wages ranging from a dollar a week up.

Victor Hugo said, "The 19th century was woman's century and I say that the United States is woman's country." Mrs. Potter Palmer said about the same thing at the World's Fair in Chicago, when she said, "Columbus discovered America and America discovered woman." As we look our country over, carefully we see that the great trend of all our thinking and law making is to give all people, if not the same chance, an equal chance. That the girl shall have an equal chance with the boy, the young woman with the young man, the married woman with the married man and the widow with the widower. Of course we believe that woman's true real sphere of action is the home and that is the highest thing on earth. I can never forget what I once heard Henry Ward Beecher say, "Home is the foundry of man. My young sister, you ought to be getting yourself in training for that calling now. God has given you wings and you can be either an angel or a moth. And the poorest looking grub is a moth when its wings are gone. Don't spend your time by spattering yourself with fringes and bangles, rats and your millinery gew gaws, don't lace and squeeze yourself out of your proper human shape. Get down off those high heels, burn up those straight frouts, those sheath gowns and shameless peek-a-boos, and occupy your time with something else than priming and powdering and fussing and fizzling, and flirting and waltzing and ten cent novels and five cent tress. If you don't, Lord have mercy on the man who sets you for a wife. He will get a walking drug store, a doll with a tinsel dress and saw dust for brains. Do you know that you are headed now straight for the sanitarium and the operating table of a specialist. Sane these things, turn from them at once and let yourself grow up sweetly and naturally, be healthy and strong and then when you meet some man, whose character you love, marry him and as the book says, "Live happy ever after."

Don't marry a man to reform him and don't marry for his money. If you do you are just as immoral as any woman who sells herself. But now what about the large class of women who will never be home makers? There are over a million women in the United States who consider themselves unfitted for the responsibility and duties of domestic life. Flossy was six when she said, "Mamma if I marry will I get a husband like pa?" And her mother said, "Yes." And if I don't get married, will I have to be an old maid like aunt Kate?" And her mother said, "Yes." The little girl sighed and after about a minute said, "Mamma, it's a tough world on us women, isn't it?"

Good Woman Goes Home.

Mrs. Mary F. Heafer, formerly of Madisonville, widow of J. T. Heafer, died at her home in Henderson Saturday morning, death being caused by bowel trouble. Mrs. Heafer had many old friends and acquaintances, who deeply regret to hear of her death. Prior to her moving to Henderson about three years ago Mrs. Heafer lived in Madisonville. She was a sister of Mrs. E. S. Baker, of Madisonville, and was 71 years of age.

She leaves two children, Ed Heafer, of this city, conductor on the Interurban between Nortonville and Madisonville, and Miss Myra Heafer, who resides with her mother in Henderson. She is survived by Mrs. E. S. Baker, of Madisonville, Mrs. Letitia Settle, of Calhoun, sisters. Her husband died about a year ago in Henderson.

The remains were buried in Old Fellows cemetery, in Madisonville, Sunday morning, where her husband was buried about one year ago.

Mrs. Henfer was a beloved woman whose many splendid traits of character made her loved by everyone who knew her. She was a devoted worker in the Baptist church. She lived a beautiful life and her passing is deeply regretted.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to thank the good people of Earlinton for their kindness to myself and family during the illness and death of my wife.

JAMES FEGAN.

DEATH CALLS MRS. JAMES FEGAN

To Her Final Home Friday Morning
After a Long Illness.

The death angel summoned Mrs. Locinda Fegan, wife of James Fegan, of the city to her long home Friday morning. Mrs. Fegan had been ill for a number of months with bronchial trouble and had for the past few weeks been in a critical condition. Consequently her relatives and friends knew that the end was not far off and were in manner prepared for it.

She was sixty years of age and had been married 42 years and had been a resident of this city 35 years. Her husband and six children survive her four boys, Robert, John, Thomas and Richard Fegan and two daughters, Mrs. Nick Shannon, of this city, and Sister Mary Thomas, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Fegan was a consistent member of the Church of Immaculate Conception, a good neighbor and true friend. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. P. McParland in the Catholic church at eight o'clock Saturday morning and the interment took place at the cemetery immediately afterward. The corps was followed to its last resting place by a large number of sorrowing friends.

McCrory in Governors Race

The Princeton Leader says:

A letter to the writer from Hon. James B. McCrory, of Richmond, states that upon the urgent solicitations of many friends and numerous newspapers he has decided to stand as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Kentucky to be voted for next year. Up to this time there are four active candidates in the field for the Democratic nomination, and with the old Democratic war-horse leader, Jas. B. McCrory, in the race the fur will now begin to fly.

Railroad Men Assist Their Employers.

The management of the Illinois Central, through the Vice President, W. I. Park, has issued an appeal to its 40,000 employees to make the railroad's interests their own, and do all in their power to educate the people to the idea that the railroads need more revenue. Mr. Park makes the statement that the physical condition of American railroads, with few exceptions, is far behind those of Great Britain and continental Europe, and that large sums of money are now required to rebuild systems. He asks the employees to realize that an attack upon the railroad is an attack upon them; that it is a financial impossibility for the railroads to continue unless their earnings are bolstered up by increased rates.

C. Shaft, claim agent for the L. & N. was in the city Thursday getting details of the Owen County accident.

NIGHT RIDERS EVADE TROOPS

Bart and Spunk Creekmnr Still at large in Lyon County.

Paducah, Ky., Aug 6—Bart Creekmnr and Spunk Creekmnr, charged with firing the shots that killed Axion Cooper, in Lyon county, are still at large, successfully evading the State guards who are searching for them. They were not at home and it is believed they have fled the country.

Adj't. Gen. P. P. Johnston, of Frankfort, is personally commanding the troops and will continue the search for the accused.

The Adj't. Gen.'s visit to Lyon county was for the purpose of making a personal investigation. He stated that the county officials were doing all in their power to preserve order and it is said he will issue a signed statement of the facts.

As yet no steps have been taken toward holding the examining trial. The regular August term of the Lyon Circuit Court will be convened August 15. As the date is near at hand, the prisoners probably will await the action of the grand jury.

Lyon county has again become normal, the presence of soldiers, who are patrolling the public highways, having a soothing effect.

INDEPENDENT TICKET ELECTED

In the Old Volunteer State—Downs the Regulars.

Independents were elected on the judicial tickets in Tennessee in one of the most exciting and had fought political contests ever known in the state.

Independent headquarters claim the majority will approximate 40,000 votes. The regular democrats, whose ticket is defeated claim these figures will be cut by 10,000 votes in many places. They also charge they were denied representation at the polls by the electron commissioners dominated by the independent faction.

News of the Mines

Morris Harrison and family, of St. Charles, visited relatives on Methodist Hill last week.

Hardin Tweedle, of Victoria mine, was revolving around among friends here last Sunday. Thos. Blair, the Victoria weighman, leaves today for an extended visit to his old home in Virginia.

Henry Jones has had a cubit added to his stature. He now presides over the emblem of justice at Hecla; in other words he is giving coal "a weigh" during the absence of Mr. Blair.

A new receiver is ready to be placed at Arnold. The old one "cothch" fire last week from superheated air. To avoid this trouble in the future the receiver will be placed further from the compressor.

W. D. Caviness and his lieutenants are having a lively tussle with a goggle eye pump near the old B. & R. club place, which it seems is prone to "take the stud" occasionally. An early study is confidently predicted.

Messrs. Rayborn and Sadler were pretty numerous around Shamrock last week. They put up a steam pipe line and equipped a rope haulage of one thousand and feet, which includes that distance on the last part of the loaded haul to the hoist shaft.

Foreman Nollie Umstead, with a coterie of kindred spirits, shrunk new tires on the Victoria motor last Sunday. Of course it was a "tire" some job, but they never "shrank" from it. They had to either re-tire the motor wheels or re-tire the motor, therefore they chose the lesser evil.

A great deal of official press was required at Shamrock mines last week—so much so that the uninited feared great impending danger at that famous colliery, but knowing ones asserted that the proximity of the Providence fair, not the welfare of Shamrock, was the consideration, and it does seem that they were Providence-tially directed in their course.

One of the big posts at the slack bins passed the secession act last week, giving way in the larly deck, and of all men Hicks and Summers were most miserable. They refused meat, rent their clothes, and sat in sack cloth. They employed the aid of the "trouble crew" (Toombs and his satellites) who after much prayer and fasting laid hands on and healed the "broken column," and immediately Hicks and Summers did eat, offer sacrifice and chant hymns of joy.

Motorman Wyatt, of Victoria mine, had an unpleasant experience last Thursday. He was making a scheduled loaded run, when he unexpectedly ran into an empty car which had broken away from an empty trip and was standing in his way. He crashed into it and knocked it aside, but it jammed the rib and slewed the motor so that the outside rail broke and derailed the trip, pulling down six sets of timbers. No one was hurt, and in one hour and twenty minutes Wyatt was again putting coal upon the market.

Members of Camp 528, U.C.V.: You are requested to meet at the court house, Madisonville, at 10 o'clock Saturday, Aug. 13, to attend to important business.

SPEND YOUR MONEY AT HOME

Those who patronize mail order houses in preference to their home merchants should go and look at the so called business streets of the suburban towns near the large cities. There are no well stocked stores such as are seen in every little country town, only small shops with meager stocks.

The reason for all this is not far to seek, the residence of these places go to nearby cities to spend their money and will only buy at home what they need in a hurry. The consequence is, they have only the little poorly stocked stores in their home town and must go to the city to buy whether they wish to or not. These people have destroyed their home town to build up the city merchants. This is no idle dream, remarked the Franklinton, N. Y. Journal. Many of the country people are unwittingly taking a course calculated to produce the same results in our prosperous county towns, and are rapidly making them dead and undesirable places.

Every dollar sent to a mail order house is a step in that direction. Every dollar sent out of your own community in that way helps to build up a city and keep back your own town. Every order sent to a mail order house helps to keep your home merchant from making an honest living.

You buy of the mail order house to save money. On some article you may do so, but the mail order man is a shrewd chap, making up his catalogue and prices in his study, and he always contrives to have some articles very cheap in order to attract attention and sell the rest. You will not save any money in the long run and are very liable to get a lot of things that are not what they claim to be. If you want your home to be alive and interesting, if you want your home merchants to keep goods, if you want a good home market for your produce, then keep your money at home.

It may surprise those who think that agriculture is almost the whole thing in this country. But—during the year ended June 30 the exports of manufactured products from the United States were valued at $708,000,000, and the exports of food products for the same period were valued at $370,000,000.

If anybody can produce better summer resort weather than Earlinton has lately been offering we would like to receive a sample package.

The principal continues to be demonstrated now and then that a man cannot safely hope to derail a moving train with his foot—or his heel.

It is still an open question: Who is the bravest, he who goes to war or is first to own and operate an automobile in hostile territory.

The tower of Babel wasn't in it. A French Aviator has reached an altitude of 5,550 feet in England.

The anthracite mines of this country will now proceed to be properly operated.

Engage in Cutting Affray.

Whit Smith and Henry Coeler engaged in an argument Friday morning about money matters. Whit claimed that Coeler had forty dollars that rightfully belonged to him and Henry claimed he did not. The argument lasted until number nine hill was reached where Smith became enthusiastic and struck Coeler over the head with an empty bottle cutting his face to some extent. Marshal Bradley arrested Coeler and brought him to the Hospital where his wounds were dressed after which he was released on bond. Smith made good his escape at the time, but later gave himself up and was released on bond.

"BEYOND THE ALPS LIES ITALY."

A POEM OF NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

(By Sarah A. Gibbs.)
Beyond the mountains covered with snow,

Beyond the icy plain
Lie summer seas—and rivers flow
Where valleys wave with grain,
There every heart press on and see
"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

There mushy roses bloom and die,
Grapes purple in the sun;
And summer ails and cloudless sky
Make earth and heaven seem one,
Take courage then; toll on and see
"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

If friends are foes and loves are lost,
And life seems dark and drear—
Earth's pleasures evermore have cost

The true heart many a tear;
So ne'er despair—look up and see
"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

Though days are dark and night are long

And sorrows cross the way;
Take courage yet—be brave and strong

They may not always stay.
O, weary soul look up and see
"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

Night will not always last, and rain
Will change to sunshine in the morning

And joy will follow after pain—
Of sorrow, sometimes, love is born

And brave, true hearts ne'er fail to see
"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

Then take the watch-word to thy heart;

Press on the prou to win,

But doubts forevermore depart

And try to foes within

Like martial music, bold and free,

"Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

Wealth of Railroad Magnates.

Edward H. Harriman was worth $71,000,000 when he died, September 6, 1909. Wall street and the general public have made estimates of the amount of the Harriman estate that ranged from $100,000,000 to twice as much, but even few of his intimate friends believed that his estate would fall below $80,000,000. The estimate given above is that prepared by Charles A. Peabody, President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, who was one of Harriman's closest friends and legal advisers, and who, since the death of Harriman, has acted as chief advisor of Mrs. Harriman, to whom the financier left everything he possessed. In connection with this estimate of the Harriman estate, it is pointed out that Cornelius Vanderbilt left $72,500,000; Jay Gould, $72,000,000; J. Stewart Kennedy, $70,000,000, and Henry H. Rogers, $86,000,000.

L. & N. May Own Steel Plant.

For the purpose of using it in car building, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company is said to be planning the erection of a steel plant on the east side of Floyd street, just across the street from the present shops of the company in South Louisville.

The new plant will be used, it is said, for the manufacture of steel framing for freight cars and passenger coaches, which are superseding the old-style wooden frame coaches. The steel frames and bottoms have heretofore been constructed in Pittsburgh and shipped here, but it is said the L. & N. believe that the work will move faster if they are manufactured in Louisville.

THERE IS A REASON

Why it pays to advertise in the SEMI-WEEKLY BEE:

It reaches a large number of wage earners who take no other paper.

It has an almost exclusive circulation in a community where $60,000.00 in money is paid out each month.

It is read by hundreds of people who buy what they want and who have money to pay for what they buy.

The only way to get your advertisement before the people of Earlington, Mortons Gap, St. Charles and immediate vicinity is through the medium of the Earlington Bee. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

For Sale.

Call on or address me at Earlington, Ky., for the best ironing board ever offered the long suffering public. It looks itself to a table, a shelf or a clean nailed table height to the wall so tight that Samson with his hair on could hardly pull it loose, yet when desired can be instantly released, folded compactly and stored away, occupying no more room than a sample board, is strongly made, will outlast a hundred men's weight without a murmur, will last a lifetime and prove a blessing to the next generation. Delivered in the city at $1.25 each, shipped anywhere on receipt of the price, the purchaser paying the freight or express charges. W. A. Toombs, Inventor and Promotor.

Secure a Certificate.

Value of a Rembrandt. According to one of the best authorities on prices, a Rembrandt portrait is worth—

"If sold to the cheerful intruder like C., say, $30,000.

"If sold to a rather intelligent, very rich but stubborn collector like D., $125,000.

"If sold to a dealer-led and ruthless amateur like E., $200,000.

"And so on up to G. and H.—World's Work.

Closes.

For an energizing life giving drink that unites in itself the peculiar properties of the solid with those of the liquid, one might do worse than try choc, the favorite beverage of Voltaire. The ingredients are coffee, milk and chocolate in about equal proportions, and they must be blended when nearly boiling hot and served well frothed. It was one of the minor troubles of Napoleon III when exiled in England that he could not obtain his beloved choc to his liking.—London Graphic.

Agreed.

"My wife and I agree perfectly about some things," remarked Mr. Meek with a gentle smile.

"Indeed?"

"Then when anything goes wrong I take it for granted that it is my fault, and she always thinks so too."

A Plank's inside and Outside.

There is an inside, also an outside, to every plank or board, the outside being the side farthest removed from the "spine" or center of the tree from which the plank was cut. The center workman always bears this in mind when fixing boards. He leaves the outside exposed to the air. If the inside is exposed to the atmosphere the earlike layers will ultimately shell out in irregular and unpredictable ways due to the action of the air destroying the adhesive properties. As a result the even surface will be destroyed, a serious defect in better class work.—Pearson's.
